

10 reasons to use a recruitment agency

Recruitment agencies are a useful resource as part of your job search strategy. Here are just a few reasons why.

01

Recruitment agencies have access to a wider variety of opportunities, many organisations prefer to use a recruitment firm than to advertise themselves.

02

Using a recruitment agency in your job search will save you time, you need only apply once to have access to a number of opportunities.

03

Recruitment Consultants can offer salary advice and help you get what you're really worth!

04

Temporary or contract work gives you the opportunity to increase your skills and work experience as well as try working in different industries.

05

Be ahead of the game! Your consultant can provide you with more insight in to the company, the job, the interviewer, the culture, the environment and much much more.

06

Recruitment agencies can put you in touch with companies you haven't even heard of who may be able to offer you a great opportunity.

07

Recruitment agencies offer support and advice on improving your résumé and interview techniques.

08

Using a recruitment agency reduces the number of times your referees are contacted. A recruitment consultant needs only to call them once regardless of how many jobs they put you forward for.

09

Maintain confidentiality, your consultant will retain your personal contact details and referee details until you give your permission to release them.

10

It's FREE – it won't cost you a cent! So why wouldn't you?